A BUSINESS POINTER.

Keep your troubles and your failures to yourself; the world cares nothing for them. Let your successes be known. Twill help to advertise you, for people worship property.
No great prize is won without a severe struggle, no matter how strong appearance may be to the contrary. With every business "knock out," pick yourself up with the determination to have another "round." That's the kind of push which will win single-handed, or where other qualities are wanting.
Do not be content with that self-satisfied feeling that you are "about as smart as they make 'em." Examine yourself and see if you are really making as sturdy an effort for business as you ought.

Saskatoon, May 2.—It is reported that the Hidatsa and Arikara Indians of the Saskatchewan River, have been attacked by the Sioux Indians, and captured some of their horses.

Mr. Peterman, May 2.—The country is in a state of much anxiety. Large armaments are being collected for the expected Sioux activity.
The actions of the last number point to the concentration of great masses of Sioux on the frontier of Russia.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

We copy the following from the Calgary daily Herald. Mr. J. Z.
Cyr-Miquelon is well known in Qu'Appelle, and his many friends will be pained to hear of the accident:

"The many friends of Mr. Miquelon remembered seeing a piece of the kind of iron which he had brought to the shop. It was engaged this morning in hanging a gate and destroying a piece of iron to strengthen it.
He went to the blacksmith shop near by to get it made. The blacksmith was short of the kind of iron and Mr. Miquelon remembered seeing a piece of the kind of iron which he had brought to the shop. The iron was survey-or's stake about three quarters of an inch thick, two feet long and hollow.
It was picked up somewhere by Mr.
Miquelon's boy about a year ago and they converted it into a small cannon, firing bullets from it with great force, until their father heard about it and at once forbade them indulging in such dangerous amusement. Unfortunately they left the weapon loaded and despite the fact it has been lying around the yard for almost a year it still retained its deadly charge so that when the blacksmith who had taken it from Mr. Miquelon, placed one end in the forge it exploded with great force and at that instant Mr. Miquelon who was standing near felt a thrill in his thigh and reeling to the door fainted just as two men caught him.
He was carried home and Dr. Roeland was summoned, when it was found that the missile had struck him on the outside of his thigh and passed down into his leg about six inches. It is not known for certain whether it is a bullet or a whole cartridge, but it is neither the one if it will be exploded without difficulty and it is not likely that there will be any serious results.
Mr. Miquelon is in excellent spirits and does not suffer from the wound, but all will be sorry to hear of his misfortune. It is one of the most peculiar accidents that has ever been chronicled."

HIS HONOR'S WESTERN TRIP.

The Calgary Tribune says of His Honor Lieut-Governor Dowdney's visit:—"Governor Dowdney, accompanied by Mrs. Dowdney, and Mr.
McGill, arrived in town last night from the southern country. While in the south the Governor held a council with the Bloods and Piegan. The Bloods are somewhat divided in their minds regarding the proper way to deal with their old enemies, the Gros Ventres. The older heads among them wish to cross the line and make a treaty, but the young bucks are desirous of crossing over and killing some of them first. With this exception the Bloods are quite quiet and peaceable. The Governor informed them that if they wished to cross the line and make a treaty he would send an officer with them who would see that they were well treated and protected.
They are busy farming and are showing signs of improvement. The Piegan are quite contented and are putting up a large one under or from the re-reserve this season. While in Calgary the Governor will take an interest in the Indians. The old men are to be consulted and the young men are to be educated.

Russia wants to trade the arms of the Turkish war indemnity for a slice of Asia Minor.

Mr. S. J. Jackson has been given the contested seat for Rockwood in the Manitoba Legislature.

Friendly Kisses.

A young man in Preston, Conn., in playing a hazing game the other night, kissed one of the maidens so hard that he broke his false teeth.

Give me kisses, darling! Let them be hot and power on me like a repeat fire heaven's thunder ships or the "Explosion" as the evening gun goes off, let me have them that is the louder gun goes off, that is the louder noise.

These are but one passage in the book where the girls are commanded to kiss the men, and that is the Indian code. "Whosoever does not kiss the Indian when he sees him, he is not a true Indian."

While Mary Anderson was playing in the Leeds and Strudwick's shop, she was told to kiss the men who were in the shop, and she did so. The men were so far back in the shop that she was taken for a girl of sixteen years old.

MUST BE COMPELLED.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—It will be necessary to give orders regarding foreign senders to the revenue cutter Bear, which sails from San Francisco for Behring Sea, May 10, before a settlement of disputed questions with England. After careful consideration by the Cabinet it has been decided what course to pursue. When Secretary Fairchild returns from his visit to Charleston, he will cause to be prepared a circular modifying his former instructions. The revenue cutter's officers will be directed to avoid as far as possible further complications by seizures beyond a marine league. The instructions will be carefully framed as not to commit the United States to a relinquishment of the claim to Behring Sea as derived from the Russian Government. The Secretary of State is fully of the opinion that under the laws of nations the United States has no right to enforce the law authorizing these seizure, but of course its jurisdiction will not be relinquished until the Government is forced to such a course.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

The practice of allowing children to go out at night to find their own companions and their own places of amusement may leave one in twenty unscathed and without danger; but I think that nineteen out twenty fall down wounded or destroyed. And if there is one thing that should be more imperative than another, it is that your children shall be at home at night; or that, if they are abroad, you shall be with them. There may be things that it is best that you should do for your children though you would not do them for yourselves; but they ought not to go anywhere at night, to see sights, or to take pleasure, unless you can go with them, until they are grown to man's estate and their habits are formed. And nothing is more certain than that to grant the child liberty to go outside the parental roof and its restraints in the darkness of night is bad, and only bad, and that continually.—Henry Ward Beecher in New York World.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN SHEEP.

Very little is known of the habits of this rare game animal, even by those who have written on the subject. They range winter and summer alike, in the same latitudes and altitudes, only in summer they wander farther away than in the opposite season. During the cold months they stay on the southern slopes of the mountains, so as to catch the sun. In the summer they are generally found on the higher benches, where the bunch grass and mountain clover are abundant. Among the peaks where they habituate, one of the first things to appear in the spring is the wild onion or leek, which is eagerly sought out and devoured by them. This wild plant imparts to the flesh a delightful flavor, and makes the meat of the big horn the most delicious in the mountains. Their greatest enemy is the mountain lion. In fact the principal diet of the mountain lion is the tender off-spring of the "Ovis Montana." When lambs are not to be had, the fierce North American panther does not object to feasting on the parents. These rare sheep are also subject to a sort of scab disease, which, when it becomes epidemic, sweeps off at short notice scores of them, young and old alike. The lambs are usually brought forth from the 5th to the 26th of May. The "Ovis Montana" is adorned with the most remarkable head gear imaginable, in the shape of monstrous horns. These are used by them for various purposes, but principally as a means of defense. The mountain sheep are always found among the peaks and cliffs in cool altitudes, and pretty near the timber or perpetual snow line. The big horn sheep, of the Rocky mountains, is a most difficult animal to bag. They are usually found in pairs, often in flocks of from four to fifty, and sometimes in bands of 150 or more. These animals range all the way to the Mackenzie, but at limits when they are exceedingly scarce and the Rocky Mountaineers furnish the most exciting sport of Western Canada. —Emigrant.

Lord Lansdowne and his tenants have reached an agreement. The Jawans of the Chicago Schools are terribly cast down over the vote of last week. It will not be long before to provide a harbor of refuge for the monthly agitators who are peddling socialist doctrines around the country. The beginning of the end of Socialism and its offshoot is at hand. —Canadian American.

Reports from the Southern States show that many lives were lost and an enormous amount of property destroyed by the recent cyclone.

ASSINIBOIA DISTRICT.

That but few of the population in the Canadian West understand the country as the west of our neighbors is understood by the average western settler across the line, is a thought which must occur to the traveller who has sojourned any appreciable time in the west of both countries. The knowledge acquired by the western settler of the American states and territories has been gained by hard experience. He has often travelled from one state and territory to another, carrying with him his experiences as he acquired it, so that at time progressed he rolled up a vast amount of useful information, which he cheerfully imparted from time to time to his less-experienced neighbor. Indeed, it has taken the American people more than one generation to understand their own west, and the early history of the settlement of these states is filled with accounts of Indian massacres—border fights, as well as lawlessness, and in addition the settler had to contend with drouths, prairie fires, and many hardships, which proved too much for some. They left the west in disgust, went back east, and many of them returned in after years to the states and territories which they had left to find their old home-taids and pre-emptions taken up and occupied by others who proved to be good stavers, and who made a success of their persistent efforts, in spite of a blizzard of drawbacks. Some people are only disgraced partly, because they have entered their work with only half a heart; others, again, who go into it with all their strength of body and mind, are bound to succeed, because difficulties which appear insurmountable to others, are looked upon by them as insignificant, and readily in pronouncing, if the settler sits down and he goes to count the difficulties, magnifying them and going out of his way to encounter them, he is never going to succeed. He is sure to become disengaged at the outset, and if he should pull up stakes and leave, he goes to another place dragging a lengthening chain after him. Any one who has read much of the history of pioneering in the American west, must admit that the great majority of the settlers have made a noble struggle against difficulties and disadvantages that would appal the average man from the city. Pressed on by the circumstances, which forced them to seek new homes in the west, the pioneer settlers, if I may excuse the pun, have passed away.

A discipline and peoples race. Hesitant with long toils, the earth, a world to work, was having the Penitence to forms Of symmetry, and resting on its rocks The glittering Parthenon, bravely faced danger and hinged at the stage. Its motto was virile. The stout-hearted and the determined did not turn back, but pressed on until success crowned his efforts. Some of the settlers of Assiniboa have become a little disengaged, because they have had three dry seasons in succession, but had they heard Mr. Carrs recently at the Regina board of trade meeting, they would have felt encouraged at his words. He said that he had been "long enough in the district to see good seasons and two or three of them in succession, and it was now time that the good seasons had their innings," and close observation led him to believe that that turning point had arrived.

A good season to the settlers of Assiniboa means a fund of encouragement, for the soil is so prolific and the yield so large, that one good season will make up for three pretty bad ones. —George B. Elliott in the Emigrant.

It is the opinion of the Montreal Herald that President Cleveland's letter replying to the Gloucester Fish Bureau, whose presiding officer informed the President that the Bureau would be perfectly satisfied if Canadian fish products were excluded from United States markets, is on the whole reassuring, conveying as it does an intimation that the President is not to be moved by any sectional or local or purely selfish appeals either to act or to withhold his hand, and that what he does will do in the interests of the nation as a whole. And now let the captains of the Canadian cruisers be careful not to use their guns too freely. We want no bloodshed by impulsive incogitants.—Canadian American.

The Jawans of the Chicago Schools are terribly cast down over the vote of last week. It will not be long before to provide a harbor of refuge for the monthly agitators who are peddling socialist doctrines around the country. The beginning of the end of Socialism and its offshoot is at hand. —Canadian American.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Ottawa, Ont., April 26.—The Grits are sadly downcast over the result of last night's vote. They expected the majority against them would not be over twenty, and they displayed their chagrin in bitter speeches, which fairly bristled with vituperation. It is now apparent that in a full House the majority would be over forty. The Government carried every Province but one, the following being the vote:

	For.	Against.
Ontario.....	47	31
Quebec.....	29	28
Manitoba.....	11	7
Prince Edward Island.....	0	5
British Columbia.....	5	0
Northwest.....	3	0
Manitoba.....	4	1
New Brunswick.....	7	5

106 77

Three Conservatives voted with the Opposition. The attack was led by Mr. Mills, who appeared to be senior sub-leader, while Mr. Blake did not speak at all. He was prepared to make an assault on the Government, but Mr. Macdonald (Victoria) quoted from his speeches in a similar case some years ago in which he urged the identical course the Government was taking. There were twelve absent on each side, and Labrosse, Independent, didn't vote.

Mr. Davin introduced a bill to incorporate the Regina and Wood Mountain Railway company.

Several bills were advanced a stage, among others one respecting the Banff national park, which met with some objections as to details from Mills and other oppositionists; and one giving representation in the senate to the Northwest Territories, the Sage of Bothwell favoring the American in preference to the Canadian system.

Sir John warmly defended the bill and contended that the Territories should be represented in the upper Chamber.

Sir Richard Cartwright thought one Senator sufficient. He condemned the Senate as a useless, worthless body of partisans.

The Home Rule and anti-Coercion debate in the House of Commons has shown pretty clearly that some of the most eloquent supporters of the resolutions really do not know what they are talking about. Mr. Laurier, for instance, in an eloquent plea for "freedom"—from punishment for crime, expresses his wish to see Ireland endowed with Home Rule, because self-government has been good for Canada. But Ireland and Canada are situated on two different continents, quite different in political circumstances. If this continent were divided among three or four Great Powers and as many lesser; the whole showing a tendency to consolidation, to the absorption of the Smaller States by the greater, and to the predominance of one or two Powers over all others, would Mr. Laurier, in the interests of his own State, urge that one of its provinces should be accorded independence? In such a state of things would a weak state of independence be to the advantage of the province itself? Yet this is what these colonial gentlemen, who know more about the best method of governing Great Britain and Ireland than the men who have spent their lives at the business on the spot, recommend shall be done in the case of Ireland. Russia, Germany, France, have the sword half drawn to decide which is to dominate Europe, and England is to choose that moment to introduce a change in her constitution which admittedly must at best reduce her to the impotent condition of Austria. The Austro-Hungarian Empire-Kingdom held up as a pattern for our administration by Mr. Gladstone, is a State having two independent constituent members, jealous of each other, always thwarting each other, which are held together solely by a common dynasty. It is somewhat strange to see Liberal statesmen regarding a dynasty as a fit basis to found a State on; it is not, however, surprising to see Mr. Gladstone choose for a model a State which is tending important through that very element of discord he desires to import into the British constitution.—The Week.

Toronto refuses to give ten thousand dollars for fireworks for a Jubilee celebration; but she voted $20,000 for a Jubilee wing to the hospital. Sensible Toronto.

Straws show which way the wind blows. Jeffrey Hale's annexation resolution in the Nova Scotia Legislature was on Friday defeated by 23 to 11. Evidently some of Fielding's Conservative supporters have kicked over the traces.

Queen Victoria's jubilee is also that of telegraphy, the first patent for an electric telegraph having been issued June 20, 1837, to Cook and Wheatstone. British electricians propose to celebrate with an exhibition of telegraphy and telephony.

The Mail's London correspondent says that members of the House of Commons interested in state-aided emigration have decided that the Colonial representative be entertained at a banquet in the house. This is an unusual privilege as the rules forbid more than thirty strangers dining together.

Lieut.-Gov. Masson's ill health continues, and at times he feels unable to perform his public duties. A week ago, he expressed to some of his constitutional advisers his intention of resigning, but on the pressing solicitations of Hon. Mr. Mercier, abandoned the idea. Rumors are again afloat that he will resign. The Assembly met on the 13th.

If the undertaking of the C. P. R. Company had turned out an unfortunate one, the Company could not justly be disturbed in their monopoly, at least till the time stipulated by the contract for completing the road. And it does not seem just to disturb them now, because by their energy they have succeeded in building the road five years earlier, by which they have added five years of life to the Northwest. But it must be remembered that if they have aided greatly in the development of the country, by their effort and skill, the country on its part has come to their help generously on more than one critical occasion, when a denial of help probably would have been most disastrous to them. They are now enjoying the fruits of their assistance as well as of their own energy; and as though both combined they can afford very well to give up their rights under the monopoly clause, it might be advisable to do so. But there must be no compulsion; the contract is binding, and must not be broken by the country for causes of mere expediency.—The Week.

WORK FOR JESUS.

Our master has taken His journey. To a country far away. And He has left us a task to finish. Against us reckoning day.

Your task may be great and glorious. And mine but a single one. It differs little. The question is: Will His coming find it done?

It may be our hands are forbidden. To work for Him day by day. Our feet cannot run on His errands. So we fit the place He assigns us. His service small or great.

It matters not in this little while. Whether we work or not. Whether we run or not. So we fit the place He assigns us. His service small or great.

There is one thing only concerns us. To do the task that is ours. And then, having found it, to do it with an all our given power.

Our Master is coming most surely. To work with every one. So we then count out our time and work. If this sentence be "Well done." —Frank and Bill.
